The Victors Oklahoma State University 1959

The Losers . . . Arizona Coach Frank Sancet offers Catcher Alan Hall consolation following the Wildcats' 5-3 defeat to the Cowboys in the championship game.

Oklahoma Pokes Win First College World Series Title

Big Eight Champions Edge Arizona
In Thrilling Final Game, 5 To 3

OMAHA—Power-hitting Oklahoma State turned the home run ball against Arizona's Wildcats to win the NCAA College World Series of 1959.

Coach Toby Greene's Cowboys got home runs from Jim Dobson and Ben Bancroft and a key triple to defeat Arizona, 5-3, in the climax to one of the most exciting Series in 13 years.

It was a great victory for the Oklahomans who had missed in four other trips to the Series. The Cowboys, champions of the Big Eight Conference, had lost earlier in the tournament to Arizona by the same 5-3 score.

The best crowds in a half-dozen years watched this year's College World Series and tournament officials John Kobs of Michigan State and A. J. Lewandowski of Nebraska said the Series was "the most evenly matched in many years."

Connecticut and Colorado State College were the first teams knocked out of the tourney. Penn State and Western Michigan handed the District 1 representative consecutive losses. And Colorado State dropped games to Fresno State and Clemson.

Pete Beiden's Fresno State team, showing fine team balance in its first appearance in the Series, knocked Western Michigan, one of the pre-tourney favorites, out in the third round.

And Penn State, turning in a fine tournament performance, bounced Clemson's Tigers.

Arizona and Oklahoma State moved undefeated into the third round and the Wildcats tripped the favored Cowboys, 5-3.

Arizona, the only undefeated team left, was shutout 2-0 by Fresno State. It was the first shutout for Arizona in 50 games.

The Wildcats then drew the bye and Oklahoma State, getting four-hit hurling from Roy Peterson, horsecollared Fresno State, 4-0.

That set up the finale. Dobson, voted the Most Valuable Player in the tourney, opened the scoring for Oklahoma State when he homered 385-feet over the left field wall in the fourth inning. Arizona battled back to tie the score and led, 2-1 when Bancroft homered in the sixth.

But the scrappy Arizonans again grabbed a one-run lead in the bottom of the sixth. Then Oklahoma State, sparked by Bruce Andrew's triple, broke open the game with a three-run outburst in the seventh.

MVP's Receive Watch Awards

CHICOPEE, Mass.—Outstanding players from the eight NCAA districts have been selected for special awards this year from the A. G. Spalding & Bros. Company.

The players, named Most Valuable in their district, were selected by a committee of coaches from the American Association of College Baseball Coaches.

Grabbing first string positions were Pitcher Al Neiger, Delaware, district two; Center fielder Doug Hoffman, Clemson, district three; Shortstop Bobby Klaus, Illinois, district four; Second baseman Ralph Hochgrebe, Missouri, district five; Left fielder Matt Encinas, Arizona, district six; Catcher Archie Skeen, Utah, district seven; and Pitcher Bill Thom, Southern California, district eight.

The eighth MVP was Bill Stevens of Connecticut in district one. He rated behind Encinas and Santa Clara's Jim O'Rourke in left field.

The eight players will receive Swiss wristwatches from A. G. Spalding.

Here's what the MVP's did:

DISTRICT ONE — Stevens, a senior, hit .407, had 28 runs batted-in and fielded .970.

DISTRICT TWO — Neiger, a junior, posted a .93 record and had an earned run average of 0.88. He whiffed an amazing total of 166 men in 103 innings, while walking but 33.

DISTRICT THREE — Hoffman, a senior, batted .345, had 22 RBI's and fielded .984.

DISTRICT FOUR — Klaus, a senior, hit .403, knocked in 17 runs and fielded .979.

DISTRICT FIVE — Hochgrebe, a senior, batted .451, had 19 RBI's and fielded .971.

DISTRICT SIX — Encinas, a senior, hit .370, had 31 RBI's and fielded .911.

DISTRICT SEVEN — Skeen, a senior, pounded out a .489 average, batted in 29 runs and fielded .988.

DISTRICT EIGHT — Thom, a senior, had a 10-1 record and a 1.44 ERA. He whiffed 58 in 81 innings and walked 30.

Sophomore Heads Deacon Batsmen

WINSTON - SALEM, N.C. — Sophomore Jay Franklin finished as Wake Forest's top batsman during the 1959 season with a .390 average. He also led the club in stolen bases with eight and tied with Byron Bullard for the lead in triples with three.

Bucknell 'Hurlers' Post High ERA's

LEWISBURG, Pa.—Bucknell University "pitchers" Steve Flamhaft, Brooklyn, N.Y., and Ellis Harley, Clearfield, Pa., probably won the dubious distinction of having the highest earned run averages in college baseball during the 1959 season.

Flamhaft recorded a fantastic 36.00 ERA for his mound efforts, while Harley limited the opposition to 22.50!

Of course there must be a catch to all this, and there is: Flamhaft is actually the Bisons' starting left fielder, Harley the shortstop. But a serious paucity of pitchers, plus some heavy exam schedules, forced Coach Rod Oberlin to take emergency measures a few weekends ago, so Harley appeared in four innings and surrendered five runs, Flamhaft in one inning for four runs.

Pan Am Plans Move Ahead

CHICAGO—Plans are moving ahead for the formation of the United States entry in the Pan American baseball tournament.

The tourney will open Aug. 28 and continue through Sept. 6 in Chicago's Comiskey Park and Wrigley Field. Both morning and afternoon games are scheduled on each of the 10 days.

Most of the U.S. team has already been selected by Coach John Kobs and J. Kyle Anderson, general manager of the U.S. club. Kobs is coach at Michigan State University and Anderson is coach at the University of Chicago.

The United States entry, to be housed on the University of Chicago campus in Pan Am Village, opens practice Aug. 20.

Positions on the team are still open, but the roster must be completed by July 17. Further nominations should be rushed to Kobs at Michigan State.

Ten countries have already entered the Pan Am baseball meet and four more are expected to enter before the deadline.

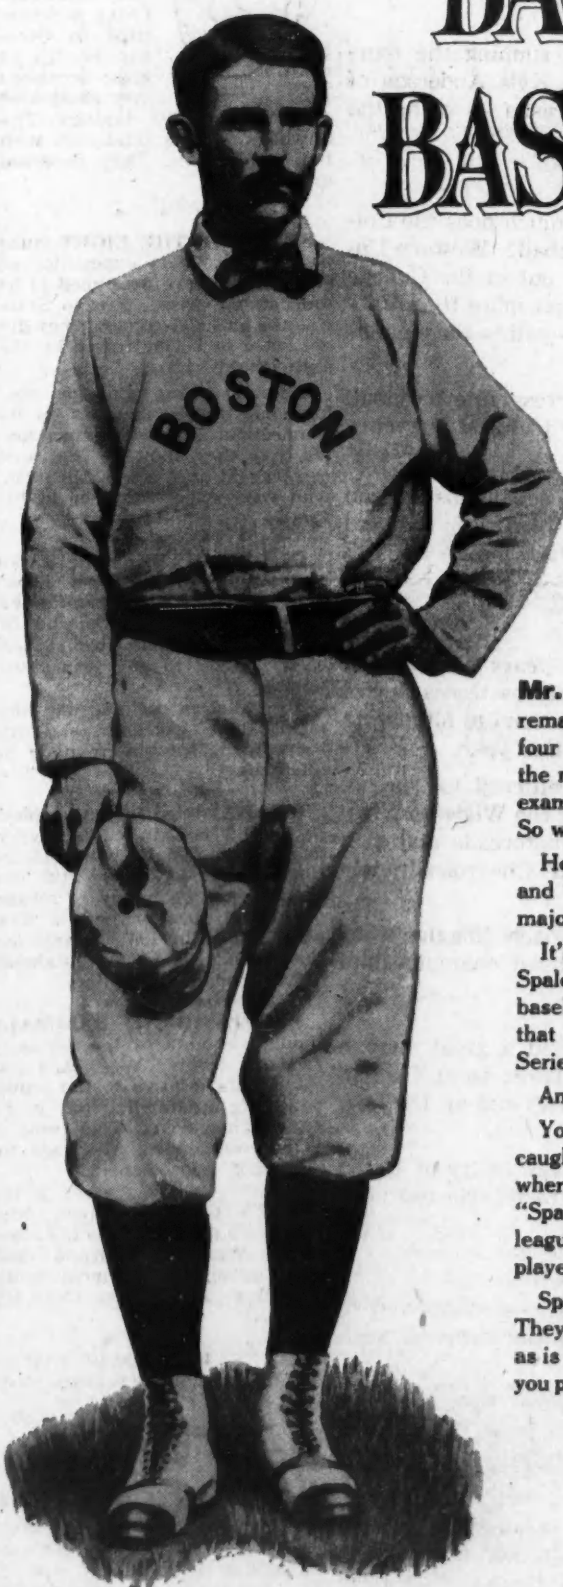

These games—called the Olympics of the Western Hemisphere—are expected to bring together more than 2,000 athletes from some 25 countries in North, Central and South America, plus the Caribbean Islands. They'll compete in 27 categories of sport—20 for men, both as individual contestants and as teams, and seven for women.

Tickets for the games may be had by writing the Ticket Department, Pan American Games, Inc., 310 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago. Requests will be honored until Aug. 15, but all orders postmarked later than July 15 must be accompanied by certified checks or money orders only.

Ticket prices for the baseball games are $1.50 for a box seat and $1 for general admission. There is also a mailing charge of 25 cents.

WHO PUT THE BALL IN BASEBALL?

Mr. A. G. Spalding himself... a most remarkable man. For one, he pitched Boston to four straight pennants (1872-1875) and was on the mound in almost every game. In 1874, for example, Boston's record was 52 won, 18 lost. So was Spalding's! He pitched every game!

He also helped found the National League and standardized the baseballs used in the majors.

It's no coincidence that the Spalding and the Spalding-made Reach baseballs are the only baseballs ever used in the Major Leagues. And that goes for the All-Star Game and World Series as well.

And that's only the beginning!

You'll find Spalding baseballs being hit and caught in the youth leagues, the Little Leagues, wherever baseball is being played. The name "Spalding" on the ball gives any game that "big league feeling." It instills confidence in the players... in themselves and their equipment.

Spalding baseballs come in all price ranges. They're unconditionally guaranteed, of course, as is all Spalding baseball equipment. So when you play baseball, play the best—play Spalding!

by ABE CHANIN

THE MOST-BALANCED tournament in 13 years is how they describe the 1959 College World Series.

It was a fitting victory for Oklahoma State which had been ranked No. 2 in the nation before the tournament by coaches in a COLLEGIATE BASEBALL poll.

Coach Toby Greene's team turned in an outstanding tourney and onlookers who saw the University of Southern California (ineligible this year because of NCAA punishment) win the 1958 World Series, figure Oklahoma State could have given the Trojans a ding-dong battle.

The 1959 College World Series saw the greatest attendance in Omaha in five years and reflected the increased effort by Ed Pettis and his Omaha committee. Mr. Pettis earns commendation for his work and college baseball also owes a tip of the hat to Mutual of Omaha Insurance Company which pitched in to help.

And college baseball's old hands at running the tourney — John Kobs of Michigan State, J. Kyle Anderson of Chicago and A. J. Lewandowski of Nebraska — made the show a smooth-running success.

TOURNEY IMPORTANCE — How much does the College World Series mean to collegiate baseball? Western Union added up the number of words filed out of the College World Series press box and determined that more than 100,000 words had been written and filed to points throughout the nation.

The Associated Press and United Press International, both staffing the tourney, estimated they had sent out more than 60,000 words.

More than 160,000 words on college baseball plus a dozen radio broadcasts, a week-long of photos filed over national wirephoto networks — that's how important the Series is to college baseball!

CAR FOR THE LOSER — In 10 years of coaching Frank Sancet has taken University of Arizona teams to five College World Series. His team finished second to Minnesota in 1956 and second to Oklahoma State this year.

When Sancet's second-place team returned to Tucson, there was a large crowd on hand to greet the Wildcats. They took the players into town via a long motorcade and at a luncheon Sancet was presented with a 1959 Chevrolet Impala — a gift of a grateful community.

That for a losing team and a losing coach. Imagine what happens the day Arizona wins the national championship!

GREAT HONOR — Louis Brock had a great enough record to make the NCAA All-District Three team. He had hit over .500 for the season, stolen 14 bases and hit the long ball.

The husky outfielder for Southern University of Baton Rouge, La. was the first Negro player to be selected on a District 3 (all south) All-Star team.

WESTERN DOMINATION — The west continued to dominate the College World Series. In 13 tournaments, western teams have won 11 times.

And in the 1959 College World Series three western teams took the tourney in tow. In the final round were Fresno State, Arizona and Oklahoma State.

But an eastern team—Joe Bedenk's Penn State Lions—was the surprise of the tourney. The Lions didn't come into the tournament with a high rating, but it took a ninth inning rally for Oklahoma State to turn Penn State out of the meet in Game No. 12.

SIGNINGS — Moe Morhardt, Connecticut outfielder by the Chicago Cubs for $50,000. . . . Outfielder John McLane of USC by Cleveland; Ken Guffey Miller, USC first baseman, by the Yankees; Outfielder Rex Johnston of USC by Pittsburgh and Pitcher Bill Thom by Boston. . . . Pitcher Bill Topp of Western Michigan to Washington for $10,000. . . . Arizona outfielder Matt Encinas by the Yankees. . . . Joe Unterberg of New Mexico by Los Angeles. . . . Gene Duffy of Notre Dame by the White Sox. . . .

2ND BASE COACH

By J. F. MCKALE

ONE HUNDRED years ago Emil Blondin walked across the Niagara Chasm on a tight rope; Charles Darwin published his Origin of Species; Old John Brown was hanged for raiding the United States arsenal at Harper's Ferry and Williams lost to Amherst in the first intercollegiate baseball game of record.

A CENTURY after the above historical events, Oklahoma State University (until recently the Aggies) won their first national baseball championship. They had made four previous trips to Omaha. On two of these occasions they eliminated Arizona in extra innings. The Cowboys were a solid club with few weaknesses. They deserved to win.

SEVEN OF THE EIGHT clubs had had previous experience at Omaha and were presumed to be tournament-wise. Fresno State was the only newcomer. They did not seem to be impressed by the experienced teams.

Colorado State College may have had its best in years, as did Connecticut. Both were much better than they showed. The game can be said of Western Michigan, who were expected to be in the finals.

IN OUR OPINION the recent tournament was the best. Chairman Pettis and his committee hit the ball hard. The parade put on by Mutual of Omaha would have been a credit to any great function.

The weather helped; the umpiring was excellent and the tournament committee made no mistakes.

OMAHA, noted for its hospitality, outdid itself in making everyone happy. Omaha will hold the tournament in 1960 and the coaches will be happy to return.

The big question now is what will happen in 1961? Many feel that all big NCAA events should move around the nation.

PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL thought enough of the Series to send 39 scouts. We heard less complaints relative to the scouts bothering outstanding players during this event. This trend is to be commended. We hope for continued improvement.

LET'S GET our space boys busy. We need to get to the moon first. Washington could loan some money and the moon would be a fine place for the Third Big League!

"EVERYTHING in life changes except hidebound baseball owners."—Bill Veeck.

Frantz Selected Delaware Captain

NEWARK, Del. — Karl Frantz, a junior shortstop, has been elected captain of the 1960 University of Delaware baseball team by his team mates.

Frantz finished his second season as the Blue Hens' regular shortstop batting .292 as the team rolled to a 15-4 record. He was the spark plug of the infield accounting for 33 putouts and 50 assists and committing only five errors in starting all 21 games.

Pitching was led by Lefthander Al Neiger's 0.88 ERA and 166 strikeouts.

Second baseman Jack Turner led the team in hits, 31, for a .360 average, and in walks with 14.

The Coaching Box

Ted Kleinhans, head baseball coach at Syracuse University, is a former major league pitcher. He once starred with the Syracuse Chiefs of the International League in the same town in which he now coaches.

FIRST BASE PLAYS

Outside of the battery, the first base position on a baseball team has more varied plays than any other. With this in mind, the first baseman has a real job cut out for him.

His playing position with no one on first should be back about fifteen feet from the base, and he should know in which direction he can move further and compensate accordingly.

With a man on first, the first baseman's position should be with his right foot at the lower inside corner of the base.

This would vary if he were right or left handed but not very much. When holding a runner at first, a left handed first baseman has the advantage, both in throwing to the infielders and in tagging the runner on a throw from the pitcher.

WITH MEN ON first and second (one or two out) he can play back about six feet and over about nine or ten feet from the base. Having the same situation with none out and a sacrifice in order, he should hold the man on first as long as possible and then charge in on the grass to field the bunt; first base being covered by the second baseman.

In my opinion, the first baseman should cut off all plays; then there is no confusion as to whether the third or first baseman should cut off the throw home. The purpose of the cut off play is to prevent a batter or base runner from taking an extra base on a throw from the outfield when a play at home is not in order. His cut off position should be around the pitching mound and lined up with the play, he should be the target for the throw home.

ON A BALL hit to the infield, the first baseman should hurry to the base and have the inside corner of the base between his feet so that he can shift according to the throw. He must never have his right foot on the base when the throw is to his right, the same applies with the left foot when the throw is to his left. Also, it is important that he anticipate possible plays before each pitch.

It isn't what a player KNOWS about playing his position that counts; it's what he DOES at the right time with that knowledge.

Maroons Finish With 12-6 Record

RICHMOND, Ky.—Larry Wood, senior centerfielder, finished the season with a .383 batting mark and Senior Hugh Gabbard compiled a 7-2 won-lost record to lead in their respective departments as the Eastern Kentucky Maroons ended their best baseball season (12-6) since 1954.

Wood, the nation's eight leading hitter among the major colleges last season, hit safely 31 times in 81 trips to the plate. He led the team in extra base hits, sixteen; doubles, eleven; triples, four, and runs batted in, twenty.

Gabbard, 6-5, 200 pound southpaw, topped the pitchers with his 7-2 record. He appeared in eleven games, completed seven of his eight starts, and allowed just 50 hits and 17 earned runs in 74 innings for a 2.07 earned run average. The hard throwing senior struck out 72 while walking just fourteen.

Ex-Pupil Wins Writing Contest On Story Of His Coach

OMAHA—Larry Boeck hung up his baseball flannels several years ago, but he is still teaming with his collegiate coach and producing winners.

Currently a sports staffer for the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal, Boeck wrote a column on what a college baseball coach is like. As an example he used Dr. John Heldman who coached Boeck as a student at the University of Louisville.

This analysis of the long-time Louisville diamond coach was selected as the top feature on collegiate baseball written during the year for newspapers with more than 50,000 circulation. So, it topped one of the five major categories in the annual competition sponsored by the American Association of College Baseball Coaches.

Winners were judged on the quality of their work and its significance for college baseball. The other top awards went to the following:

John L. Owen, Seattle, Wash., Post-Intelligencer, for best news coverage of college baseball in a paper with more than 50,000 circulation; Tom Foust, Tucson, Ariz., Daily Star, best feature coverage of the sport in a paper with less than 50,000 circulation; and Jack Williams, Durham, N. C., Morning Herald, best straight news coverage of the sport in a paper with less than 50,000 circulation.

Carl D. Bennett, Kalamazoo, Mich., Gazette, was named top photographer in the contest. Runnersup in this area were Philip A. Diehl, Winston-Salem, N.C., Journal, and Edward J. Freeman, Philadelphia, Pa., Inquirer.

Judging in this contest is held annually at Creighton University in conjunction with the NCAA baseball tournament, the College World Series. The panel of judges is headed by Abe Chanin, Editor of Collegiate Baseball.

Other judges were the Rev. R. C. Williams, S. J., Creighton University; Bill Dean, Associated Press staff member in Nebraska; Danny Litwhiler, baseball coach of Florida State University, Tallahassee, Fla., and Harry Dolphin, director of the Creighton University News Bureau.

Other winners announced in the contest were the following:

Feature stories in papers over 50,000 — Ernie Roberts, Boston, Mass., Globe, second place; Jim Minter, Atlanta, Ga., Journal, third place; Ray Fitzgerald, Springfield, Mass., Sunday Republican; John Hanlon, Providence, R.I., Evening Bulletin; Mal Mallette, Winston-Salem, N.C., Journal; Jerry Ribnick, Houston, Tex., Chronicle, and Bill Richardson, Kansas City, Mo., Star, honorable mentions.

News stories in papers over 50,000 — Al Thomy, Atlanta, Ga., Constitution, second place; Gene Warren, Greensboro, N.C., Daily News, third place; Bob Dellinger, Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman; Ray Fitzgerald, Springfield, Mass., Sunday Republican; Murray Forswall, Dallas, Tex., Times Herald; Forrest Miller, South Bend, Ind., Tribune; Jim Minter, Atlanta, Ga., Journal, and Maurice Schadle, Omaha, Neb.,

Hochgrebe Grabs Bevy Of Honors

By BILL RICHARDSON

KANSAS CITY—Ralph Hochgrebe, hard-hitting Missouri second baseman, was loaded down with honors following competition of the Big Eight baseball season.

The 6-foot Tiger captain from St. Louis won the conference batting title as well as spots on the All-American, All Big 8 and All District 5 teams. In addition, Hochgrebe was chosen as the No. 1 choice for All-American honors from this area.

Ralph had the top average among conference regulars with .449. Two players had higher averages, but neither batted more than twenty times.

Chosen on the All Big Eight team were Ken Ruisinger, Nebraska, 1B; Hochgrebe, and Bruce Andrew, Oklahoma State, 2B; Lee Olmstead, Iowa State, ss; Jim Dobson, Oklahoma State, 3B; John Scowcroft, Missouri, LF; Ben Bancroft, Oklahoma State, CF; Brewster Hobby, Oklahoma, RF; Don Nipp, Oklahoma, catcher; and Grant Halsne, Iowa State, and Joel Horlen, Oklahoma State, pitchers.

The Big Eight stars, chosen from all-opponent teams picked by the players, differed slightly from the all district choices. Bob Haas, Missouri, won the leftfield nod over teammate Scowcroft; Gene Lenderman beat out O.U. teammate Hobby for right field, and Cecil Raybourne, Bradley, won the catcher's nod over Nipp.

Dick Soergal, Oklahoma State, finished as the Big 8's leading hurler with a 5-0 mark. Halsne appeared headed for the honor when he was sidetracked by Colorado in the final series of the season. He won six.

Dobson, whose 22 hits went for 37 bases, led the league in homers with four and in runs batted in with 21. Halsne set the pace in strike outs with 66.

William Jewell, with a chance to win the Missouri Collegiate Athletic Union title outright, dropped its final game of the season to Central, 6-5, and had to settle for a first place tie with Culver-Stockton at 4-2. George Lago, Larry Markt and Ray Wilson paced Coach Norris Patterson's Cards to an 11-8 season record.

Other area champions included Arkansas Teachers of Conway, Arkansas Intercollegiate conference; Southwestern Oklahoma of Weatherford, Oklahoma Intercollegiate conference; Coe of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Midwest conference; and Buena Vista of Storm Lake, Iowa conference.

Southwestern Oklahoma's title, its ninth straight was won in convincing fashion with a 20-7 victory over Oklahoma Baptist in the deciding contest. Buena Vista
